Details

Description

The Greek civil engineering company has a long tradition in innovative technologies and energy saving systems. The main activities of the company include the study and construction of building projects with energy saving solutions. Over 2,000 building owners used the company to build, renovate and apply new technologies in their home. The services of the company include energy saving solutions in the place of residence, home insulation, installation of solar heaters, installation of new heating systems, renovations of homes and shops. For promoting the mentioned services the company has created an online portal with 800-900 unique visitors per day.

The company is now looking to expand on the retail of relevant products used in the services that already provided. The company would like to conclude new partnerships with suppliers or manufacturers of energy saving systems. To this end, producers or suppliers of solar water heaters, heating equipment, heater pumps, boilers, energy saving equipment, cooling, humidity detection and repair, energy monitoring, heating instrumentation, etc. are sought. The Greek company expects proposals that will combine high quality, high performance, reliability and affordable pricing.

The Greek company is looking for companies manufacturing or supplying products under distribution services agreement.
