INTERNATIONAL SECTIONS in the HAUTS-DE-SEINE DEPARTMENT (92)

In close connection with the goal of the Académie de Versailles to diversify language options, and in keeping with the development of the international appeal of the Paris region, the Hauts-de-Seine (92) department is widening its range of international Sections.

International Sections operate within the framework of bilateral agreements between France and partner countries or educational authorities. They provide bilingual and bicultural programmes implemented jointly by the French Ministry and the educational authority of the partner country. Pupils and teachers can be French or foreign nationals.

International Sections can be found in primary, lower secondary and higher secondary schools in France and in the network of French schools abroad.

In the Hauts-de-Seine (92) department, from nursery to higher secondary schools, international Sections provide a challenging, high-level curriculum for children from foreign or binational families living in France, as well as for French children whose families return to France after years of living abroad, or who have otherwise acquired the necessary motivation and language skills. Pupils in international Sections can attend lessons in eight different languages.

In the current school year (2018-19), about 1500 pupils (500 at primary level and 1000 at secondary level) attend lessons in international sections.

A specific feature of the bilingual and bicultural curriculum of international Sections is to integrate not only the language, but also the teaching methods, of the partner country within the French education system.

From lower secondary school, two school subjects are taught in the Section language, according to programmes jointly implemented by the French Ministry and the educational authorities of the partner country :

- Language and literature ;
- History and geography ;
- In Chinese and Koreans international sections, Mathematics instead of History-Geography.

Particular consideration is given to securing an uninterrupted language curriculum for every pupil, especially for those that leave the international Section, so that they can go on making progress in the language at their own pace, even outside the system.

HOW TO APPLY

The enrolment of pupils is based on an application form to be filled in and sent :

- To the Inspection de l'Éducation nationale (IEN) for admission to primary school.
- Directly to the chosen school for admission at secondary level.

An interview and tests in the Section language may be required.

Application forms are available on next page :
