1) PROJECT INFORMATION

Field of expertise related to the topic: The Crime & Society Research Group at Waterford Institute of Technology, Ireland, comprises researchers drawn from a range of disciplines including criminology, law, psychology, sociology and social science. Victimology & victimisation are core thematic research areas of the research group. Members of the group worked and currently work on a range of relevant national and European projects including Daphne project SASCA (Support to Adult Survivors of Child Abuse in institutional settings), a 24 month European project, co-financed by the Justice Programme of the EU; the COST Action on Victimology 18121; and COST Action on Offender Supervision in Europe IS1106.

Potential contribution to the project: Members of the Crime & Society Research Group (CSRG) at WIT are experienced researchers with an array of research skills including project design and implementation, ethical approval, qualitative and quantitative research methodologies, data analysis, written reports, publications and public communication. CSRG members are engaged in local, national and international collaborations and have published widely both in peer reviewed journals and with respect to international book publishers including Routledge and Manchester University Press. We possess specific expertise in research on victimology, victimisation and sexual violence and can also contribute expertise in the analysis of National and EU legal and policy frameworks.

Role in the project:

- Research Dissemination Other
 Training Technology Development

Project idea: To examine and identify qualitatively and quantitatively the wide spectrum of gender based violence including sexual harassment in research organisations and universities; develop a digital learning tool kit aimed at raising awareness around the various forms of gender based violence, to identify cultural environments in which it thrives and to highlight potentially appropriate responses based on best practice research.

Project description: Calling time on gender based violence: researching and raising awareness of gender based violence in all its forms in research organisations across
