Short profile of the Organisation: bit media is among Europe's leading e-learning providers and has managed successful projects throughout the world in the area of continuing education and training, as well as development cooperation projects. The company was founded in 2000 as a joint venture of bit and SIEMENS and since 2005 it has been under the sole ownership of the bit Group. With 60 employees and experts in Austria and another 140 employees internationally, bit supports companies, public organisations, training centres and schools in their implementation of digital training and administration processes. Having developed the technical framework SITOS®, bit media provides a large scalable solution for learning and educational portals that were implemented in a huge number of projects already. SITOS offers course and content management, online collaboration, e-commerce capabilities, content authoring as well as access on many mobile devices. Bit media's e-learning portfolio is complemented by a range of services: Consultation in the development of training programs, development of individual e-learning modules, operation and maintenance of e-learning platforms and portals (SaaS), online tutoring as well as concepts for integration of e-learning with classroom training (blended learning).
