Short profile of the Organisation: "Bulgarian Science" is an online magazine published by Association "Forum Science". Since launched in the winter of 2005/2006, it has developed at a fast pace by offering the visitors various and interesting new information, opportunity for self-expression and connection with people with the same interests. The magazine quickly became the largest and most dynamic scientific online community in Bulgaria. After the launch of "Bulgarian Science", it managed to win the readers and enthusiasts to post their own material and to offer ideas for improving the magazine itself. The main idea behind the project is to be distributed for free and dissemination on Internet and to provide the best possible, interesting and detailed information about science, making it available to as many online users as possible. The content of the magazine is full of popular science articles and current research papers, studies and dissemination on science projects. The magazine is getting more and more popular among the young people. latest issue: http://nauka.bg/ ; http://issuu.com/bgnauka/ We collaborate with the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences and now we start working on different projects. Scope of the association has over 200 000 people per month of all ages, gender and interests.
