Role in the project

- Research                       Dissemination                       Other
 Training                       Technology development

Project idea:

Our hypothesis is that carrying out an educational intervention on research staff about the importance of giving information to patients on the research study they participate in, could improve the level of knowledge that patients have.

Project description:

Prospective, quasi-experimental study. All patients included in any research trial that agree to complete a specific questionnaire will be able to participate. Educational intervention will be given to research groups. Then, once the educational intervention has finished, these questionnaires will be provided to new patients included in any research study after the educational intervention.
